PRISONERS SENTENCED.

Two Attorneys Fined For Getting Mad
In Court—The Saloon Injunction Cases Taken Under Advisement—Where to Worship.

The Mightiness of the Pen.

Yesterday Judge Thornell sentenced a number of criminals to terms in the penitentiary. One of these was Charles Fales, who has already served one term there. On being released he came back to Oakland, and there savagely attacked a merchant, Mr. Degraff, who had been instrumental in his conviction. He struck Degraff with a brass knuckle, or some other weapon, causing him to lose one eye. This led to his arrest, on the charge of mayhem. To this he pleaded guilty. When arraigned for sentence yesterday he made a long explanation of his conduct, and denied that he used any knuckles, or anything but his bare fist when he struck Mr. Degraff. He said that in talking with Degraff about some money which he states he owed for some time, Degraff made a sneering remark, because he could not pay, and called him a sneak. This so angered him that on the impulse of the heated moment he struck him. Judge Thornell listened very patiently to the detailed recital of the prisoner, and then sentenced him to hard labor in the penitentiary for three years.Charles Paxton, the colored porter at Bechtel's, who pleaded guilty to stealing some clothing, was sentenced to the penitentiary for eighteen months. Although pleading guilty, he explained to the judge, that he did not know anything about the stolen goods, until a policeman arrested him. There were some storekeepers who were identified as being the man who tried to sell the goods to them, and so he thought he might as well plead guilty.The young man, Whipple, found guilty of forging railway tickets, was sentenced to two years and nine months. He is a bright appearing, active young business man of more than ordinary intelligence, and well connected. He took his sentence very hard, and much sympathy was expressed for him by the lookers-on.
His position as ticket agent gave him an opportunity, which proved too great a temptation for him. Taking tickets for short distances, he would alter them so as to make them good to Denver, or some other distant point, and keep the surplus himself.Call and see the stock of horses and mules at Star Stables before purchasing

The School Election.

To-morrow the voters are to again visit the polls for the purposes of selecting three school directors, and to pass upon the following questions:1. Shall the board of directors of the Independent school district of Council Bluffs, Ia., be authorized and empowered to lease the school building with the necessary ground, for a term of ninety-nine years, at a rental of 1 cent per annum, to be used as a normal school.2. Shall the board of directors of said Independent school district of Council Bluffs, Ia., be authorized and directed to sell so much of the school grounds as may be necessary, in order to use the proceeds thereof in the erection of a school building with a high school department, on the Washington avenue (M) school grounds.3. Shall the board of directors of the Independent school district of the city of Council Bluffs, Ia., be authorized and directed to sell the bonds of said district in the sum of forty thousand dollars ($40,000), or so much thereof as shall be necessary, to use the proceeds of the sale of the high school grounds, to complete the construction of a school building with the high school department, on the Washington avenue (M) school grounds.The purpose of these works is to get more and better room for home pupils who have been crowded terribly the past year, and to secure, if possible, the establishment here of a normal school, which will bring here four or five hundred young men and ladies. Those who favor the move deem it better to lease than to donate, as the city by leasing does not lose control of the property. In case the school board cannot arrange with the state to establish an institution here it will have the authority to arrange with private parties if deemed advisable. It is argued that a large and successful normal school could easily be established here adding to the population and advantages of the city. If by any miscalculation this was not accomplished, the city could continue to use the hall building as best it could. No one could afford to keep up a school, even with rent free, unless it was a large and successful one.
If Council Bluffs can secure a normal school with an attendance of several hundred pupils from all parts of the state it would be an enterprise of great value to this city. It would help all other enterprises at the same time.The building of a new school house, centrally located, seems an urgent need.
Scholars have been seated on the edge of the rostrum, on settees placed in the hall, and in fact have been stowed away as best they could. The sanitary disadvantages above call for a speedy remedy.
The vacancies to be filled are for two directors to serve the full term of three years, and one to serve one year, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of J. K. Cooper.The polls will be open from 9 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m. at the following polling places:The First ward at Swan's packing house on Upper Broadway.The Second ward at John Dohany's livery office on Bryant street.The Third ward at Hattenhauer's office on Fourth (Bancroft) street.The Fourth ward (first precinct) at No.
535 Broadway.The Fourth ward (second precinct) at Kelley's hotel, South Main street.The democratic nominees are Robert Rain, J. C. DeHaven and G. S. Lawson.Dr. Hanchett, office No. 12 Pearl street; ness property call on W. C. Stacy & Co.,

A $35 MILL.

The little altercation between Attorneys Holdane and Sims, which occurred in the district court Friday, was given to the judicial finish yesterday. Judge Thornell fined Mr. Haldane $35 and Mr.
Sims $15 for contempt of court. As it was sentence day for criminals the victims of hot temper were tortured greatly by their jocose friends, and especially the press gang, who threatened to run their names in the list of criminals disposed of."I was fined once for contempt," remarked one of the oldest members of the bar. "Some other lawyer and myself got mad, and forgot ourselves. I stayed off paying the fine as long as possible, but every time I sold a piece of property the judgment for the fine would show up in the abstract. At last one fellow who bought some property of me would not close the deal unless the abstract was made clear by having that judgment paid off. I had to pay it at last."

The two attorneys thus fined will have have cooled down greatly now, and they are wondering why lawyers cannot do the same as newspaper men—get mad and abuse each other, and let some one else do the fighting while they sit easily smoking together and swopping lies.

Rough on Rock.

Rock, charged with making malicious threats against John Dierks, the manufacturer, was yesterday sentenced to pay a fine of $300, or stay in jail ninety days.
Rock pleaded guilty to making the threats, but explained the aggravating circumstances leading to the affair. He claimed that he could not get his pay from Mr. Dierks, by whom he had been employed, and was anxious to get settled up so as to go to Fremont, where he had another position awaiting him. After trying in vain to reach some settlement, he says Mr. Dierks declared he would not pay, and as he had no money with which to go to law, he got mad and made this break. He told Judge Thornell that he thought it was pretty tough to have to go to jail for trying to get what was due him, but the judge told him such was the natural result of men taking the law into their own hands.
